REPORT OF THE FIFTEENTH WHITSUNTIDE GATHERING, Held at Sibford from Saturday, May 22nd to Tuesday, May 25th, 1920.

"BRILLIANT WEATHER FORECAST.

CROWDS FLOCK TO THE SEA-SIDE."

I SMILED as I read this headline in the newspapers—all I have time to read as a rule—and felt quite sorry for the crowds. Sibford in the sunshine at Whitsuntide is far better than the seaside and crowds. But one thought was saddening. Mr. and Mrs. Harrod were away; and when the last stage of our journey had been accomplished, they were not at the School to greet us. The temporary Headmaster, J. Douglas Maynard, and his wife, very kindly stepped into the breach and gave us a hearty welcome; and over all floated the new S.O.S.A. flag.

Anticipating a record gathering, the gymnasium had been prepared as our sitting room, instead of the usual class-room. Many hours must have been spent on the transformation—it was no less. Gone was everything we remembered, the rope, the ladder, the old horse; and instead, but where shall I begin? The gallery calls for no description, in that it is "our" gallery, and we ourselves used it, and because the less frivolous Old Scholars heard much (peradventure too much) about the gallery before the red busses bore us away on Tuesday morning. Festoons of ivy and golden gorse supported Japanese lanterns; carpets and rugs covered the floor; easy chairs, cushions and bowls of roses, all helped to make the room comfortable and pleasant. The weather was so glorious, and Old Scholars so continuously out of doors that the sitting room was not greatly in demand during the daytime; but it was very much appreciated at the evening "Re-unions."

Owing to the larger number of visitors, it was impossible this year to find beds for everybody. Tents were, therefore, erected in the playing fields, and some of the Old Boys were supplied with blankets, and dispatched thither. Any discomfort which they may have experienced was, I am certain, balanced by the extra excitement they obtained. Horses fell over the guy ropes, careless fellows mislaid their blankets, and the birds sang—whereby hangs a tale. The occupants of one tent heard them before they went to sleep; one murmured, "Nightingales," and they listened enthralled; those in the next tent, aroused from their slumbers, called down all sorts of pains and penalties on the heads of "starlings"!

Another party of Old Boys slept in a barn, kindly lent by Mr. Sabin. One excitement they had during the first night has been so well described by an old scholar that with (or if necessary, without) his permission, I shall quote.

Scene—Barn adorned with beds.

Occupants—Some reclining (sleep being impossible owing to the barrage), the rest in varying stages of undress.

Terrific bombardment of barn (by stones), making frightful din on the roof. (Those in bed, thinking of schooldays and "The Tempest," murmur "We split! We split!!")

After a moment's hesitation, in which the situation is reviewed, exit those most attired—at the double.

Sounds of withdrawal of enemy, with our men in pursuit; and after an interval, a prisoner (a village youth of tender years) is brought into the barn. A Court Martial is held, and the youth asked whether he would prefer to be hanged, or stay in the pigsty all night. Without hesitation he chooses the latter punishment; so, by unanimous vote, taken in the proper manner (i.e., as at the O.S. Annual Meeting), it is decided to hang him.

A convenient and massive chain, complete with pulley blocks, is lowered with as much clanking and noise as possible, and mingled cries of "Hang him! Hang him!" The prisoner collapses, and the floodgates are opened. Ultimately it is discovered that the link is too small to go round the prisoner's neck, so the case is adjourned, prisoner being sent away under escort.

That espionage had been going on was obvious from the fact that the youth persisted in giving the same name as that of our distinguished leader.

By lunch time on Saturday, nearly all the Old Scholars had arrived, found kindred spirits, and were settling down to have a good time. The meal was quite noisy—perhaps the more boisterous members were the early ones this year. The most important item of this, as of all other meals, was the Secretary's speech, beginning: "I am sorry to bother Old Scholars"—in a truly apologetic and amusing tone; and invariably going on to urge us to be early to bed, not to smoke too much on the School premises, to put our names down for the tennis tournament, and—not to forget to be early to bed.

Very soon after lunch, we found ourselves on the playing field for the match against the School. Once more the Old Scholars proved too strong—size makes such a difference—and though the boys put up a very good fight, they seemed unable to hit the ball beyond the fielders. The present scholars had not this year the assistance of Mr. Harrod, and were further handicapped when Mr. Herbert could not bat owing to injury, and they were finally beaten by 36 runs. Score:—

It was during the cricket match that the great excitement of the day occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Harrod walked on to the field, and then, indeed, the more recent Old Scholars felt they were back at the old School. Mr. Harrod was not looking so well as we like to see him; but we hope a prolonged rest will work a great improvement, and that he will be back at his post on the hall steps to welcome Old Scholars next year.

The Present Scholars' Concert was, in my opinion, specially good this year. The chair was taken by J. D. Maynard, who extended a very hearty welcome to all, and in a happy little speech he spoke of the incongruity of setting "the very latest new boy to greet Old Scholars."

The School is to be congratulated on possessing such a first-rate "funny man" as Roland Herbert—as the Spanish Lover in costume (complete with guitar); the rustic (also in costume); or the harassed husband, he never failed to appeal to Scholars, old and young. The closing item, the sketch, (did I hear original sketch?) brought the house down. I feel sure it contained a moral, at any rate, for me it contained a warning, to beware of the mate with a passion for cleanliness. As George A. Birmingham says, "It may be next to godliness, but shabbiness and good humour are necessarily connected."

Thomas Jackson moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Present Scholars for their delightful entertainment, and contrasted the children of to-day with those of forty odd years ago, when the penalty for singing on Sunday was bread and water on Monday. The motion was seconded by Elsie Wells, and enthusiastically carried.

Supper was followed by our first re-union, which function, as in other years, resolved itself into a most delightful impromptu concert. The three reunions are so closely connected in my mind that I hope I may be forgiven for failing to describe each one separately. It was on these occasions that the new gallery distinguished itself, providing entertainment (and applause) between items and encouraging fellow "galleryites" with cries of "Play up, our side!" In spite of this exuberance, it was quite obvious that all the songs and recitations were appreciated. It would be fatal to try to pick out individuals for special praise, but I can assure all the performers that those of us who cannot assist do heartily enjoy the entertainment they provide.

Sunday dawned gloriously. Owing to the late hour for which it was arranged, most Old Scholars were early for breakfast. One incident—or rather, two incidents which occurred during this meal, have given me cause for thought. The first was the usual speech by our secretary, in which, in addition to being urged to retire to bed early, we were bidden to present ourselves in good time at the Meeting House, so that a specially large gathering might be seated before eleven o'clock. In order further to assist matters, our friend, Arnold Kaye (owing, we were told, entirely to the seriousness of his demeanour!) was appointed doorkeeper. Whilst I am on the subject, I should like to congratulate that gentleman on the way in which he carried out his duties—filling up all the seats, even the old-time ministers' gallery, and during the meeting keeping a restraining eye on the overflow in the lobby.

The second incident was the reading by our President of the LXXXIV. Psalm. As I listened to the words, "I would rather be a doorkeeper in the House of the Lord than a dweller in the tents of wickedness," I wondered, (bearing in mind the twenty-odd Old Scholars sleeping in the playing field) whether the sense of humour that had led our President into so many scrapes at School, had not even yet survived. Was his reading merely a coincidence?

The old Meeting House has changed very little since we sat there facing the other way, and pondering over our troubles, or watching through a microscopic window the clouds drifting across the sky. There were many familiar faces in that gathering, and I think we all felt it was good to be in such company once again.

Sunday afternoon was devoted to rambles. Two people, having studied their programmes, walked to Swalcliffe Common, and others may have gone elsewhere; but there was a goodly number assembled in the Paddock.

Evening meeting was held, as last year, on the lawn under the australian (this on very good authority, although we always called it "The Monkey Tree"). The address was given by Mr. Maynard, who congratulated us on belonging to a community like Sibford School, and went on to tell us of the particular features which had impressed him as a stranger becoming acquainted with the life there. He summed up admirably our chief lesson as "integrity of heart and skilfulness of hand."

The reunion, held after supper, was naturally of a quieter nature than on the previous evening, and, after singing together "Abide with me," we dispersed somewhat earlier than usual.

The Annual Meeting was held on Monday morning, when our friend Charles E. Brady steered us through the various items of business with his usual skill and good humour, and withal at a good rate, so that we were soon able to get out into the glorious sunshine.

The group photograph was then taken by Percy Simms. It was not as easy as it sounds to arrange a hundred and fifty people, of various sizes and degrees of dignity, so that all may be seen, the more weighty members to the fore. It was done, however, at last; and after lesser photographers had been endured, we were allowed to disperse and chat till dinner time.

In the afternoon the tennis tournaments were concluded, and we made our way to Temple Mills for the picnic. The weather was perfect, and tea, thanks to many Old Scholars and visitors and our usual bevy of fair waitresses, was excellently served; and in spite of such petty annoyances as gnats, photographers and signature hunters, everyone had a good time.

A very high-class programme was provided by the Old Scholars to follow the President's address in the evening. The chair was taken by Edmund I. Gower, and the success of the entertainment was in no small measure due to him. We were regaled between items by jokes and stories, one of which specially appealed to the writer, being a description of the hair drill in vogue when the Chairman was at School. "You see the result!" he said.

The result of the tennis tournament was announced during the evening. Nancy Snow and Kingsley Rutter were first, closely followed by Mrs. Brady and Arnold Kaye. It was felt that it had been a great improvement on the tournaments of former years, and our best thanks are due to Mr. Frank W. Snow for organising it and personally providing the prizes.

Monday's reunion was more exuberant than the two former reunions. I suppose we all felt it was the last, and we had but a few more hours together. The chair was taken by R. B. Oddie, and what a business he had, too! The gallery was the disturbing element—it could scarcely contain itself—in fact, as our Chairman said, it was becoming a jolly nuisance. Much time was devoted to thanking William Reason for the work he had done in connection with that same gallery, and to his amusing speech in reply. A collection was made to cover the deficit over the Old Scholars' gift of fifty guineas, and in a few minutes the balance was subscribed.

With this reunion our Gathering broke up; and before many hours we were speeding in different directions, looking forward to meeting again in 1921. For me, as reporter, it only remains to thank most heartily all those who helped to make the function such a success; Mr. and Mrs. Maynard, the Staff and present Scholars: Miss Kennedy and her assistants for the splendid way in which they catered for a record party; the carving committee, who did so much work before each meal, and our local secretaries, whose tireless efforts on our behalf alone made it possible for such a large number to be comfortably housed. As a French delegate said at a recent conference, "I only want to say one word, 'Merci!'"

THEODORA HODGKISS.

MINUTES OF THE BUSINESS MEETING, Held at the School, Whit-Monday, 1920.

1. Charles E. Brady was unanimously elected to the chair.
2. The minutes of the previous meeting, as printed in the Report, were taken as read and adopted.
3. Messages of greeting and good wishes, conveyed by telegram, letter, and postcard, were read from the following : W. Appleton, B. Arnold, M. Birkett, I. Brison, R. Brock, E. Foster Brown, D. & O. Clayton, F. R. P. Cope, Mrs. E. Edridge, R. Errington, Mrs. Farrington, E. Feugard, Mr. & Mrs. Gitsham, A. Goode, M. T. Graveson, W. Grimes, S. Harris, L. Hutchinson, E. Percy Kaye, M. Kervorkian, F. E. Lee, A. P. Lower, P. Mould, E. Nainby, M. Neave, H. & M. Nichol, F. Parsons, D. Peverett, C. Reynolds, Mrs. L. M. Ridges, Robert Rose, R. Sampson, Mrs. E. F. Shortell, Miss Shotter, L. & G. Squire, M. Thompson, J. H. Tyler, Gordon Wells, R. T. White.
4. Arising out of minute 11 of last meeting, it was reported that the new S.O.S.A. flag, seen to such advantage over the School, had been made entirely by Mrs. Berrington. A vote of thanks to her, moved by R. B. Oddie and seconded by E. I. Gower, was carried amidst applause.
5. The Secretary (H. J. Randall) read the correspondence dealing with the grant from S.O.S.A. funds towards the cost of alterations to the gymnasium. The desirability of improvement had been mentioned at the School Committee in October, 1919, and our representative on that body, Charles E. Brady, brought the matter before the S.O.S.A. Committee. As the need for alteration was urgent, and as the suggestion met with warm approval, it was decided to grant fifty guineas from the funds, subject to the confirmation of the Annual Business Meeting when held.

Edmund I. Gower spoke appreciatively of the work carried out, and moved the following resolution :—“ Resolved that this Annual Business Meeting of the S.O.S.A. confirms the action of its Committee in assisting to alter the Gymnasium. That the sum of fifty guineas be and is hereby granted from the funds of the S.O.S.A. towards the cost of these alterations, such sum to include the ‘Nellie Millard Memorial Fund.’ And that a small tablet recording the event be placed in a suitable spot in the gymnasium.” Mrs. Emilie Wood seconded the resolution which was carried unanimously.

6. The Secretary asked to be excused from making his report in the meeting, and promised it for publication in the Annual Report. Percy Hodgetts then gave the Treasurer’s Statement. Its adoption was moved by E. Eric Quinton, seconded by James H. Hibbs and carried.

7. Edna Quinton and Henry Lawrence made brief reports of the Birmingham and London Branches respectively and outlined several suggestions for future activities.

8. The Election of Officers then took place. The following were re-elected :—Secretary, Henry J. Randall ; Treasurer, Percy Hodgetts ; Local Secretaries, Jane Sabin and Mrs. Harrod ; Branch Secretaries. Birmingham, Edna M. Quinton ; London, Henry

Lawrence. Auditor, Arthur B. Oddie ; Representative on School Committee, Charles E. Brady ; Editor of Memorials, Robert B. Oddie.

The two vacancies on the Committee caused by the automatic retirement of Emma Roy and Godfrey H. Pool, were filled by the appointment of Frank W. Snow and K. Elsie Wells.

The retiring President, Thomas Jackson, in a short speech proposed Mrs. Harrod as his successor, referring to the help and source of pleasure she had been at Whitsuntide Gatherings for the past fourteen years. Edna Quinton seconded the proposition which was carried with acclamation.

9. The Chairman spoke of the unfortunate illness of the School Headmaster, James T. Harrod, and of the pleasure it gave Old Scholars to see him amongst them once more. The Secretary was asked to condole with J. T. Harrod and convey the meeting's hearty wishes for a speedy recovery.

10. Robert B. Oddie drew the attention of the Meeting to the fact that in spite of its successful existence since 1903, the S.O.S.A. did not possess a constitution or any set of rules whatever. He proposed that a form of constitution should be drawn up and submitted to the next Business Meeting for consideration. Arthur Shilson seconded the resolution, which was carried. Mrs. Harrod, C. E. Brady, P. Hodgetts and H. J. Randall were asked to draw up the constitution as suggested.

11. The Secretary read the minute passed in 1914 appointing a Sub-Committee to design a badge for the S.O.S.A., and if approved to arrange for its manufacture. Owing to the War this work had not been proceeded with.

Several members urged that the work should now be carried out. Elsie M. Rose suggested that the design should be printed in the 1920 Report so that members not on the Sub-Committee might see the design before giving their orders. James H. Hibbs agreed, and asked that prices might also be given and a choice of three metals to suit all tastes.

As a result, the Sub-Committee before appointed was asked to submit a design, if possible in the 1920 Report, and quote prices for badges of gold, silver and white metal.

12. Thomas Jackson proposed, and Mabel Brady seconded, that a picture be framed and presented to the School in accordance with previous custom. Carried.

13. Arnold J. Kaye and Edna M. Quinton were asked to arrange musical items for the evening re-unions and concert during the 1921 gathering.

14. A vote of thanks to the Chairman and Officers of the Association terminated the proceedings.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Some years ago when E. Percy Kaye wielded the Secretarial fountain-pen, his breeziness and optimism were objects of wonder. In these days the Secretary may lack his predecessor's scientific mind and breeziness, but he claims to have the same optimism. And there is good cause, for the S.O.S.A. is thriving, and its coming of age will soon be a matter for celebration.

Numerically the Association continues to grow, for whereas last year the membership totalled 482, it now reaches 520. This increase is largely accounted for by the addition of those who call themselves "new" Old Scholars, but others have also joined, making our membership more representative of the three well-known regimes at Sibford. To them all a hearty welcome is extended. Against these acquisitions the resignation of three members must be recorded; also the unfortunate death of one of our members in New Zealand. During the War we lost trace of about thirty members, and their names will appear in the Report without addresses. Any help in discovering them will be appreciated.

In contrast to our emblem the Old Elm which steadily withers away, the two branches of the Association are flourishing and generally break into leaf more than once a year. After the experience of members around Birmingham and London it is not surprising to hear certain people talking of a Somerset Branch; indeed, one stalwart in the north of Ireland would like to start an Irish Branch, but there are only four members out there and they are well scattered. Moreover there are at present slight deterrents in that country to the holding of Old Scholars' Re-unions!

So much has been said about "the Gym.", now raised to the rank and name of "The Assembly Hall," that little need be added here. The assistance given by Old Scholars has been rewarded with much appreciation and to those who consider that the most pleasing duty of this Association is to help the Old School in every way, the incident must be gratifying, besides being an earnest of further help in years to come.

Correspondence with members in different parts of the world has been a great pleasure during the past year. Sibford is remembered with pride by scores of scattered Old Scholars who would give much to see it on such a day as this.

Whilst thus far the prospect pleases one has regretfully to introduce a note of complaint, which should really be termed "The Treasurer's Lament." There are many members to whom all notices are sent, who receive the Annual Reports and who share in whatever glory our Association possesses, but who forget to pay subscriptions. Some memories are worse than others, unfortunately, and the funds suffer accordingly. At Saffron Walden these delinquents are known as "stray lambs," and the term might be horrified by Sibford. In Percy Hodgetts the forgetful ones will find a forgiving shepherd and a willing receiver of subscriptions, without which the Association cannot exist.

Complaint must also be made of the disinclination of members to send in information of general interest. The taking of a degree is rarely made known by the modest recipient, and the notification of such seemingly important events as marriage is often forgotten in the consequent bliss and excitement. Unless, therefore, members do give information of this kind, the Annual Report is bound to be less complete and interesting.

There is little else to report with which members are not already acquainted. As the Association increases in membership and keenness, so these Annual Gatherings become larger. The size of the present one is a cause for congratulation, even though a source of alarm to those responsible for the arrangements. Those who are present must surely feel that if these Associations exist for the purpose of keeping Old Scholars in touch with their alma mater, providing opportunities of renewing schoolday friendships and promoting the spirit of School loyalty, then the S.O.S.A. is justifying its existence and calls for our continued and enthusiastic support.

HENRY J. RANDALL, Honorary Secretary.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.*

Delivered by THOMAS JACKSON, President, 1919-1920.

When I attended the Old Scholars' Gathering last year, it never for one moment occurred to me that I might be proposed as President, and after my election I wondered what I had done to deserve such an honour and so much punishment. Someone gave me the parting salute, "You have got twelve months to think about your address." Just fancy twelve months wondering what I was going to say and then writing down something at the last moment quite different from anything I had thought of during the year.

Last year your President started off with the words "Reconstruction" and "Permanent Peace." I suppose the word "Reconstruction" has been used more the last two years than for the previous two centuries. In the reconstruction of the World to-day, building houses takes a premier place. Never before have local authorities taken so much interest in this matter. First they select the best site, or what they consider the best. Then the architect draws up the plans, and every little detail is gone into to bring them up-to-date. The first thing in building is to get in a strong foundation for supporting the walls and roof; at the end that tenants shall take every care of the premises.

The greatest Architect of all after creating the heavens and the earth looked on His handiwork and saw that it was very good. A student of Nature can easily imagine the Creator using these words, for He had created the heavens, earth, flowers, fish, insects and animals; last of all He created man's body for the soul to dwell in. This then is the house which is made perfect and which all the ingenuity of man cannot improve upon. In all nature the first law is cleanliness, so it is up to us to keep our house clean.

Have you ever considered the beautiful shells made without any tools, enlarged from time to time by the snails themselves and yet so designed that no human architect could improve on them? We have eyes to look with, but there is a great difference between looking and seeing. You can look at a lesson you have to learn, but you will never master it till you see it. A sharp student will see it quickly, but a lazy student will look at it for a long time and not see it.

Has it ever struck you to enquire why the Creator should have placed your mouth, nose and eyes where they are so that every bit of food you eat must first pass through the tests of taste, smell and sight? If it were not so a great many people would be in danger of suffering from eating bad food. Have you ever thought why you can move your eyes whilst other animals have fixed eyes, or why you have eyebrows just over the eye, or why they are placed in a socket? If you will only commence to see and not be satisfied with looking, then you will want to know the reason why, and it will open up such a vivid picture of the beauties of Nature that you will want to go on studying it.

Keep the body clean. To do so externally is one of the first laws necessary for health, but I say to you keep it clean internally.

Keep your thoughts clean. Let them be pure and good; do not think evil of anyone, do not impute bad motives to anyone, always remembering that :—

"There is so much good in the worst of us,
And so much bad in the best of us,
That it hardly behoves any of us
To talk about the rest of us."

* Abbreviated for this Report.

Keep your bodies pure, as Nature intended they should be kept. Impurity leads to disease both of the body and mind, and to-day as a result, thousands are suffering unknown torments. But I want also to ask you to help in the building up and keeping clean of the bodies of others. I want everyone present, even the youngest, to come forward and help in the social re-building of Character, the uplifting of the fallen masses and the saving of the womanhood of the country. Voluntary workers are badly needed everywhere, and whilst some can do good work on Town Councils, Boards of Guardians, etc., others can do better for Temperance, Welfare and After Care Work. Do not wait until someone comes along and asks you, but select the work you like best and do it; in doing so, work in the right way so that it cannot be said of you as the following lines suggest :—

“ The men that work for England,
They have their graves at home,
And bees and birds of England
About the cross can roam.

But they that fought for England,
Following a fallen star,
Alas ! Alas ! for England
They have their graves afar.

And they that rule in England
In stately conclave met,
Alas ! Alas ! for England,
They have no graves as yet.”

You children are now at school building your foundations. with the help and advice of your teachers; you are having a training in all that is good, so that when you leave and go out into the world you will be in a position to resist all that is bad; then you will have to build up your character, and in doing so help others to build theirs. I would say to you, “ Do not think you are too young to commence some good work, but remember that even at school there are such things as Honour, Truthfulness and ‘ Playing the Game.’” I would urge the ladies present to help save the womanhood of the country for the need is very great. Consumption would have been stamped out long ago if, instead of building hospitals, we had started at the right end and built healthy dwellings. Drink would have been abolished long ago if, instead of being content with getting people to abstain, we had stopped the tap. Now we are once more repeating the blunder by opening hospitals for disease instead of making it impossible for people to contract the disease.

I must detain you no longer. I have endeavoured to persuade each of you to help in the Social Uplifting of the People. We ponder in amazement over the unwritten records of the earth's history; we find sermons in stones, in plants, in insects and in the heavens, which prompt us to exclaim :—

“ How marvellous are Thy works, O, God.
In wisdom hast Thou made them all.”

“ Come frankly read the rocks, and see
In them the earth's biography;
Let mountain piled on mountain tell
Its antique age; and every shell
In fossil form its tale unfold,
Of Life's bright day through time untold;
And gathering use from great and small
See good in each and God in all.”

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL YEAR, from August, 1919 to June, 1920.

IN reviewing the past year of School-life different happenings and events loom before the minds of boys, girls and teachers. The boys rejoice in the fact that the record of their football season was so good. The girls had their games and class work interrupted and diversified by several changes in lady teachers, whilst everyone saw with deepening concern how the strain of war years was bearing so heavily upon Mr. Harrod. Early in March the inevitable collapse came and nature insisted upon his retirement from amongst us for six months.

Staff.

Early in the School year, Miss David's ill health made it difficult for her to carry out her duties so that we were not surprised to hear that she was leaving us. On October 16th we welcomed her successor, Miss Docking, who quickly succeeded in restoring the domestic science to its former high level. The second half of the year was a term of peculiar difficulty. We returned from the Christmas holiday to find Mr. Harrod confined to his bed with a bad cold. A week later he was sufficiently recovered to take classes, and continued to do so until March 9th, when he fainted at the breakfast table. The days which followed were anxious ones for all of us, but especially so for Mrs. Harrod, upon whom fell the double burden of nursing and of representing Mr. Harrod in the School.

The doctors insisted that he must be quite free from all School duties and responsibility, so the Committee decided to ask J. Douglas Maynard and his wife to fill the vacant places until the end of term. As soon as it was practicable Mr. and Mrs. Harrod left for Switzerland and other places of rest. At the time of writing this report (August, 1920), we are very glad to be able to say that he is already more like his old vigorous self than we have seen him for several years.

The months of April, May and June brought even other changes. Miss Taylor left us to become Mrs. Briggs, and her place as Art Mistress was temporarily filled by Miss Marshall. The girls' games and drill were very ably carried on by Miss K. Snow, who also helped by teaching some of the junior classes. Fortunately there has been no change in the staff on the boys' side.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard came amongst us with no experience of our boarding school life, yet we know that they left us in June with pleasant memories of Sibford, and we are thankful for their happy fellowship and help during trying days.

Scholarships and Class Work.

The exhibition of class work in June showed that the work of the school during the past year had reached a high standard. The Art Room, Cookery Room, Nature Room and Science Room literally overflowed with wood-work and metal-work models, art, needlework, etc., regional survey of Sibford; whilst Harold Rose and Horace Cheney with their beam engine and water motor gaily working, drew an admiring crowd.

Again this year Sibford took its toll of Transference Scholarships. Three were awarded to four schools, and we secured two of them. Harold Priestman goes to Sidcot, and Beryl Aylward to Ackworth. These two also are at the head of the School this year and hence it is with confidence that we heartily wish them all success. Another of our top boys, Horace Cheney, succeeded in gaining an Entrance Scholarship to Bootham.

Games.

Space forbids an account of all matches. In football we played 7, won 5, lost 1, drew 1. Goals scored, for 31, against 18.

The best game of the season was against the Banbury Municipal School, our opponents playing four masters, three pupil teachers and four boys against our team of three masters and eight boys. The score 6—2 (our favour), represented a thrilling game in which a light team outplayed a heavy one by skilful combination. It was in this match that a tall and fast opponent after vainly chasing our elusive centre-half (Mr. Herbert) up and down the field, muttered, "I didn't come here to play a dancing match."

Only two cricket matches were played this term, one being lost and the other resulting in a draw.

The girls' hockey suffered from lack of training at first, but that they were well able to hold their own later on was clearly shown by a match of juniors against a B.M.S. team of their own age. After the score reached 15—0 the referee lost count, but the Banbury team was simply overwhelmed.

Swimming took a new lease when coal became available and records for the school were broken. Connie Mold and Bessie Pritchard led the girls and succeeded in swimming 70 lengths. Whereupon the boys knew no rest until they had beaten that. Their champions were Norman Wilson and Stanley Ewan, and these two earned great glory by swimming 100 lengths. Had he been permitted Wilson would have gone on, as he was quite fresh when the whistle called him out. Practically all the seniors could swim well by the end of term.

The Guilds.

At the beginning of the year the Guild spirit was low, but several exciting competitions in Football, Hockey and Chess revived it, and when the sports came in the spring, enthusiasm was high. The leading members of each Guild take a live interest in the efforts of the weaker ones, and this in itself has justified the formation of Guilds.

It is surprising how the various kinds of talent are evenly distributed, and this year no one could tell beforehand which would be the successful Guild in most of the competitions.

Lectures.

Twelve lecturers from home and abroad have favoured us this year, viz. :—

Mr. J. Baily, "The Internment Camps."

Mr. Bassett-Lowke, "Model Engines" (Lantern).

Mrs. H. T. Gillett, "Isaac T. Hopper, who helped escaping slaves."

Dr. H. T. Gillett, "Pasteur."

Win. Noble (and concertina), "It is better to be safe than sorry."

Miss M. Fox, "Friends' Relief Work in Germany."

Mr. Harrod, "Water Forms" (Lantern).

Rev. Evans, "Colour Photography" (Lantern).

Mrs. W. C. Braithwaite, "Using a Vote."

Ronald Wells, "Work of the F.E.C. in France" (Lantern).

Mr. Harvey Theobald, "An American Tour" (Lantern).

Mr. R. Biswas, "F.F.M. in India" (Lantern).

All were thoroughly appreciated, but the three enjoyed most were "Model Engines," "Water Forms," and "Colour Photography." The last deserves special mention because the Rev. Evans not only gave us a clear understanding of how coloured photographs are taken, but showed us a series of most beautiful coloured pictures taken by himself.

Picnics and Excursions.

All old Sibfordians will recall pleasant memories when we name the places visited again this year :—Traitor's Ford, Brailes, Wigginton Heath, Whichford Woods, and Edgehill. The flowers at Whichford were more beautiful than ever, and sheaves of bluebells and orchids were gamely carried back to be despatched "home" by parcel post.

Camp.

A mixed camping party under Mr. Thorp and several mistresses pitched tents again at Chastleton, and in spite of the rain enjoyed themselves immensely. One feature of this camp seems to have been the cooking, Rose Lausdowne and Mrs. Beeton's Guide being inseparable.

Buses.

At last Sibford is really linked up with the world. The fine red busses of the Midland Omnibus Company run regularly twice a day on Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, from Shipston to Banbury. Birmingham folk can actually travel all the way home by bus from the Elm, via Shipston and Stratford-on-Avon.

The old order of wagonettes has now departed, and at the close of each term teachers and scholars are quickly conveyed to Banbury Station by motor bus and by a "Ford" owned by Mr. Keyte of Sibford Gower.

F.P.

THE ASSEMBLY HALL.

OLD scholars will have many memories of visiting lecturers: the anticipation always delightful, the realisation often so, and sometimes even ecstatic. But for years the small size of the science room has led to discomfort, especially when a lantern exhibition meant the exclusion of extraneous light, and consequently of air. My suggestion, made last autumn, that the gymnasium might be modified so as to make an excellent assembly hall, without interfering with its present uses, was warmly taken up by the School committee. The seriousness of the question of cost was relieved by C. E. Brady, the O.S.A. representative on the committee, who said that, as old scholars had in former years done much for the gymnasium, he felt sure that they would like to help again, especially as the proposed alteration would be of service to them at their annual meetings. He and George Sykes, as part of a small sub-committee, paid a special visit to Sibford in December. It was decided to obviate the coldness of the room in winter by putting in a good ceiling, to increase the seating accommodation by building a gallery for about sixty seats over the entrance, to place a platform at the far end, and to cut a doorway through to the workshop. This doorway could serve as a stage entrance, but is also permanently useful as a means of approach to the workshops in wet weather. The platform, besides being useful for lectures and concerts, is a great convenience to teachers of music and drill. George Sykes kindly undertook to procure the materials, and thus largely diminished the expense. The work was carried out under the superintendence of William Reason. Great credit is due to G. Cadd, the village carpenter, for his skill in meeting the difficult requirements of the undertaking during term-time.

The room was sufficiently ready to make its advantages obvious at the Easter half-term holiday. It was also used for Sunday-evening School meetings. But the real recognition of its usefulness took place at Whitsuntide, when it served as a comfortable drawing-room by day and a concert hall in the evenings.

Towards the cost the O.S.A. contributed £63 7 1. Formal thanks have already been tendered, but those who reside in the School, and are constantly benefiting from this improvement, wish also to put on record their cordial appreciation of the splendid support and enthusiastic help of the O.S.A.

THE FUTURE OF SIBFORD SCHOOL. II.

SINCE our last report, much attention has been given to the position of the School in connection with the Teachers' Superannuation Act. This arranges for a liberal pension at the age of 65 for teachers in state-aided secondary schools, and in other schools which may receive government recognition for that express purpose. As the amount of the pension depends on the number of years of service in such schools, it is clear that teachers will be unwilling to risk a loss by serving a few years in other schools. If Sibford does not get recognition, it may have to be closed through the impossibility of obtaining teachers. Finding many other semi-private schools in a like position, the government may well hesitate before deciding to incur the whole cost of the education of the pupils who will thus be driven into state schools.

The Sibford School Committee, while awaiting a reply from the Board of Education, has considered what can be done to improve the school premises without spending on alterations which might shortly be scrapped. The need of an assembly hall large enough to hold a school meeting comfortably, has been met by the alterations to the gymnasium, described elsewhere; in this way a room is provided which might, under changed conditions, become the Village Hall for Sibford.

The committee has also decided to alter the half-yearly system to that of three terms in 1921. The important questions of raising the leaving age, and of teaching a foreign language, involve many complications and are still under consideration.

Old scholars will be in cordial agreement with the following opinion of Bedfordshire Quarterly Meeting as published in "The Friend" for July 30th: "The business included consideration of the report of Sibford School and its financial needs. . . . As usual the greatest enthusiasm was expressed for the School, which was felt to be thoroughly justifying its existence, and to be something quite by itself in educational value." When we meet next Whitsun, these words may well be to the fore in our minds. Can we see our way to further development of the idea they express? (J.T.H.)

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

It is regretted that the Whitsuntide group photograph cannot be printed in the Report this year. The very strong sunlight on Whit Monday made a good result impossible, and as the group was so large, the faces in a photograph reproduced in print would be almost unrecognisable.

Whereas in 1913 Percy Simms had to use an umbrella to keep the rain off his camera, this year he used it to keep the sun off, and he was the only member of the party heard to grumble at the exuberance of sunlight.

The S.O.S.A. Badge Sub-Committee find it impossible to publish anything definite yet for the information of members. All discussion on the suggested badge has necessarily been conducted by correspondence, and this method has had obvious drawbacks. The chief stumbling block has been the motto, "Ye Menne of Secepforde," etc., which E. Percy Kaye suggests is an invention of Charles E. Brady's! The whole matter will come up for discussion at the next Annual Gathering when the sub-committee will meet and when designs and prices will be submitted to members. By that time the origin and authenticity of our motto may have been established, but if not, a fresh one may have to be decided upon.

The following letter has been received by the Secretary and is published in this report as the best means of conveying to our readers the thanks of the School Committee:—

44, Waterloo St.,
Birmingham,
30th June, 1920.

Dear Mr. Randall,

SIBFORD OLD SCHOLARS' ASSOCIATION.

I am writing to you at the request of the Sibford School Committee to express, through you, to the Members of the Old Scholars' Association, the Committee's very great appreciation for the generous assistance of Old Scholars in the alterations of the gymnasium at the School. The Members of the Committee examined the improvements when they were at the School at the time of the General Meeting and were satisfied that the value of the gymnasium to the School will be greatly increased.

At the same time they could not have felt justified in proceeding with the alterations without the assistance of the Old Scholars.

The Committee warmly appreciates the loyalty of the Old Scholars to the School, and they will be glad if you would take an opportunity of expressing their thanks to your Members.

Yours sincerely,

WILFRID E. LITTLEBOY,

Honorary Secretary.

The opening of the Penn Club, in London, which took place on October 14th, 1920, was an interesting function. Frederick Andrews, who opened the club, speaking as the late Headmaster of Ackworth and this year's President of the Old York Scholars' Association, reminded those who were present of the object of the club to provide a social centre for Old Scholars' Associations and other bodies of a similar nature.

Before the club was opened there were over three hundred members, and as many again were expected. There is room for forty members to live at the club, and a portion of the accommodation is reserved for country members coming up to town. The Lecture and Committee Rooms may be used by societies at reasonable charges, and meals obtained on the premises. A very attractive series of lectures is being given on Wednesday evenings, and during the first session these are open to all Sibford Old Scholars whether members or not. The warden of the club, 8, 9, and 10, Tavistock Square, W.C. 1., will gladly supply further particulars. (H.D.)

It is pleasant to record that as this Report goes to press, Mr. Harrod is settling down once more to his duties at the School. He looks much better in health and feels fitter, he declares, than he has done for ten years. The condolences and good wishes of Old Scholars at Whitsuntide have had an excellent effect on him.
